

NEVER COMPROMISE SAFETY

DON'T RUSH!

Hoping that unprepared situations can be recovered on the fly
RARELY WORKS OUT.

It actually endangers our operations and:

- Puts more pressure and stress on the staff
- Potentially triggers a vicious circle generating even more problems

- Always requires more effort & further perturbrates operations

Lack of anticipation and preparation are common human error preconditions.

To avoid compromising safety :

- Anyone can speak up (activities scheduling, organisation, staffing...)
- Managers should foster collaboration & ensure coherence between objectives and resources.
- Consider preparation as an investment.
